

THE GREAT MIRROR DEBATE

One of the most hotly contested topics in the bathroom is the shaving or medicine cabinet. Whether or not to include this often unbecoming extra storage space is controversial with both designers and homeowners – but it doesn't have to be.

One of the main reasons this cabinet is often disliked is due to its bulky looks. Big and chunky-framed units can feel cold and lack style, with some so shallow that they even lack functionality. But a well-organised cabinet can be the key to smoother mornings and evenings in what should be one of the most relaxing rooms in the house. So is there a compromise? The mirror cabinet from BelBagno is the perfect solution to this problem.

With adjustable-height shelving, this cabinet allows you to stand your bottles, creams and tubes upright, which many drawers simply do not accommodate for due to lack of depth. But this mirror cabinet's functionality does not end there. BelBagno cabinets come with a built-in power point, allowing you to charge your electric toothbrush while still keeping it tucked away and out of children's reach.

And if you're in need of the sink late at night, the BelBagno is there to save your eyes from the bright rays of the overhead light. Simply swipe your hand under the cabinetry (yes, no buttons and no fingerprints!) to turn on the bottom LED lights, or open the door and the internal LEDs will illuminate.

But the things we like most about this BelBagno cabinet are the looks – stylish and sophisticated – and the price. This aluminium double-glazed product is surprisingly affordable, so there will be no debate when it comes to replacing your existing unit and purchasing this one for your new build.
